

1. Open Google Chrome
2. Click the person icon on the top right
3. Select Manage People

4. Click Add Person in the bottom right hand corner

5. Name it what you would like. I called mine Session 1 , Session 2, and Session 3 for each person. Super creative I know!
6. You will see shortcuts have been created on your desktop with each "person" or as I called them sessions. You can now launch eCMS in each of these sessions without running into the already logged in error.

The only downside I ran into was, if you use chrome as your main browser and have bookmarks and custom settings, they do not travel to the new sessions, which makes sense because you are making a new profile for each session/person. If a browser is not opened and you use the regular Chrome icon and not the session shortcuts it will open the last person/session that was opened. You have to go up to the person in step 2 and choose the person/session from the list.
